ABOUT GWALIOR

Gwalior's tradition as a royal capital continued until the formation of present day India, with the Scindias having their dynastic seat here. The magnificent mementoes of a glorious past have been preserved with care, giving Gwalior an appeal which is unique and timeless.

Gwalior's history is traced back to a legend. In 8 A.D, a chieftain called Suraj Sen was stricken by a deadly disease. He was cured by a hermit saint, Gwalipa, and in gratitude founded a city which he named after the saint who had given him the gift of new life. The new city of Gwalior became, over the centuries, the cradle of great dynasties and with each, the city gained new dimensions from warrior kings, poets, musicians and saints, contributing to making it a capital renowned throughout the country. Since then, Gwalior is considered to be a city where a rich cultural tradition has been interwoven into the fabric of modern life. Also, where a princely past lives on in great palaces and their museums; and where a multitude of images merge and mix to present to the visitor, a city of enduring greatness.

ABOUT THE SEMINAR

India is a young and populous democracy with about 45 percent of its over one billion people being children. Articles 15(3), 39, 45 and 47 of the Constitution of India confer special status to the children to ensure that their needs are met and their human rights are protected. However, Juvenile Delinquency is increasing day by day and more and more children are engaged in violence and antisocial acts. It has been seen that delinquents lack ethical standards and emotional ties. They are very impulsive and indulge in acts at the spur of the moment. They are socially insensitive and lack of guilt feelings. Delinquency has been found to be highly correlated with low life styles with lack of recreational facilities and permanent residence. Broken homes combined with emotional deprivation add fuel to the fire. Hence, neglecting children in need of care and protection leads children to "children in conflict with law" It, therefore, goes without saying that children cannot be treated at par with adults while dispensing justice. However, debate over dealing with the child offenders picked up momentum after the incidence of brutal Delhi gang rape (Nirbhaya) case.

Subsequently also children have been involved in commission of grave offences like murders and rapes. These cases are being used to buttress the arguments to lower the age of definition of Juvenile. The ramification of this demand needs to be urgently debated in order to bring harmony between protecting rights of the children and adequately punishing the guilty.

Amity Law School, Amity University M.P. is organizing a one day National Seminar in an effort to provide a forum to discuss the various facets of Juvenile Delinquency 30th March, 2019.

Proposed sub themes of the Seminar (but not limited to) are as mentioned below and research papers will be invited from scholars and professionals across the country on these themes:

1. Juvenile justice (care and protection of children) Act, 2015
2. Juvenile Age determination: Issues and Challenges
3. Working of juvenile courts and its peculiar features
4. Female Adolescents and Juvenile Offending
5. International efforts for juvenile justice
6. Life events and social conditions (risk and protective) contribute to delinquency
7. Any other topic related to juvenile delinquency
